

Distance Learning Academy News

February 8, 2021

Dear Families,

Another week, another snow storm and another Brady Superbowl win! This is an excellent reminder of how much things change, yet also stay the same.

This week, we ask that you return ELA books from the January material distribution to your home schools. If you have any questions, please call your home school office.

Progress reports will be available to families this Wednesday, February 10th via Aspen. Please see the note at the end of the newsletter explaining the district's approach to this important communication tool.

Also, if you have an incoming kindergarten student for the fall of 2021, please click here for more details about registration, NEW Family Information Night and a kindergarten census form.

Please find other information and updates below, and thank you again for your support.

Warmly,

Jen, Jodie, Kristen and Maura

A Note about Progress Reports:

The February 2021 Progress Report maintains expectations from previous years for each grade level with consistent benchmarks defining “proficiency.” The progress report measures performance against priority standards for each grade level. As we assess students’ current performance and plan instruction, our goal is for students to grow in reference to these benchmarks.

Our instructional priority is on safety and well-being, as we believe this is the first step toward helping all students reach academic goals. We recognize that not as many students are reaching these expectations due to the school closure and reduced instructional time.

Ratings: This looks different for each child as they have been impacted in individual ways. If your child receives a “2,” we are monitoring their progress and providing interventions to support their growth. With educators and families across the country, we recognize that the pandemic has had a significant impact on students’ learning, and we anticipate that there will be more “2’s” this year than in previous years.

“N/A” will be used to indicate standards that have either not yet been a focus of instruction or areas where we do not have sufficient data to report for an individual child due to attendance limitations. Our professional team is committed to understanding the gaps that exist in children’s learning and working creatively to help students grow academically, socially, and emotionally.

We are grateful to our families for your partnership with us in supporting your children’s growth during this unusual year. By assisting them with learning at home and providing us with helpful feedback, you have been strong collaborators during this time of crisis.

We intend that this progress report will be a useful tool for the conversations you will have with your child’s teacher as we transition into the second half of this school year. The spring conference season in early April will be another opportunity for families and teachers to communicate about students’ progress. Please reach out to your child’s teacher with concerns or questions.
